The MENA IB Program is a collaboration between American University in Cairo, Egypt (AUC) and the University of South Carolina (USC) providing students with the tools necessary to successfully compete in the MENA regional business environment. The program pairs up 20 students from USC and 20 from AUC to form a cohort who spends Year 1 and 3 at USC and Year 2 and 4 at AUC. USC Students participate in an intensive study of Modern Standard Arabic during two summer intensive programs.

Due to the current political climate in Egypt, the MENA program is not accepting students at this time.
